EXPLANATORY NOTE

It is of highest national interest to keep a country's military air force, in this case, the Philippine Air Force to be at par with not just any like military organization in the world but more so with its private counterpart, the ever vibrant and thriving airline industry which has become home to seasoned and veteran pilots who trained from their respective Air Forces.

It is in light of these developments that this bill has been contemplated fearing the possible exodus of our very own PAF-trained, seasoned and veteran military pilots in favor of better and higher paying jobs in airline industries here or abroad.

The Philippines cannot afford its officer-pilots from PAF to be pirated by private or commercial airlines since government has spent considerably for their training that it will be a constant cycle of financial losses if the pattern continues. Besides, with the new although seasonal acquisition of more aircrafts for PAF must also come the retention of highly qualified officer-pilots to be trained as well as to train other pilots in the military service.

This bill contemplates applying brakes to this phenomenon of 'brain drain.' Further, it seeks to put a stop to this disturbing pattern or behaviour of more and more officer-pilots leaving the military service in search of greener pastures or better opportunities that private or commercial airline are in a position to offer than the government.

Hence, immediate passage of this bill is most earnestly prayed for.
