EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 3330

Introduced by HON. JOY MYRA S. TAMBUNTING

EXPLANATORY NOTE

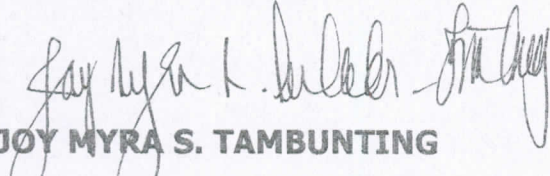

Almost everyone in our country is now equipped with mobile phones. With the technology today, mobile phones have become handy tools in our fast-paced lifestyle. Now, mobile phones compete in terms of clarity of camera as well as video shooting. Hence, everyone had virtually become a photographer or videographer in their own right. But with these powerful tools also come with great responsibility. This responsibility entails the adherence to protecting the rights of women and their children who are vulnerable to abuse through the usage of technology.

For the past years since camera phones have become a commodity, video or photo scandals involving women have been circulating in the internet as well as passed one from one mobile phone to another. Sadly, the usual culprit is the partner of the woman whom she trusted and loved. These sad and emotional plights women have to go through under the guise of love and trust are appalling and disturbing.

Hence, this bill seeks to protect these women and their children from all forms of electronic violence, thus augmenting and fortifying the mandates under Republic Act NO. 9262 or the Anti-Violence against Women and their Children Act as well as under Republic Act No. 9995 or the Anti-Photo and Video Voyeurism Act.

The salient feature of this proposed measure is the issuance of an E-VAW Protection Order. Herein, it orders for the immediate blocking, blacklisting or shutdown of any internet site that propagates the uncompromising photo or video shots of the victim. More importantly, the measure aptly defines electronic violence by including harassment through text messaging and cyber-bullying.

Thus, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
