EXPLANATORY NOTE

Education liberates one from ignorance, and society from the bondage of poverty. Precisely, it is a policy, if not a mandate, of the State to establish, maintain and pro-actively promote an adequate, effective system of education relevant and responsive to the needs of the time and of its own constituents.

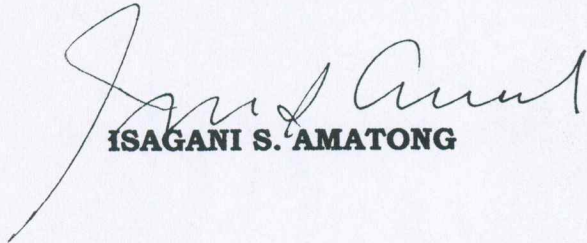

While efforts of the national government to improve its educational system have been endless, a little re-direction may be in order. Educational institutions, both public and private, prefer to locate in urban centers, to the detriment of the youth in the less developed areas of the country, resulting to socio-economic inequity. It is imperative to make, as a matter of policy, quality education equitably accessible to the many who aspire to be of greater service to their fellowmen and to society as a whole.

The establishment of the Siocon Science High School in Siocon, Zamboanga del Norte, with emphasis on the sciences, is intended to make readily available by reason of proximity, educational programs and facilities of the state, in places where they are strategically needed by its youth, in particular, and the community in general.

Siocon is one of the progressive towns of Zamboanga del Norte, particularly in the South of the Zamboanga peninsula. It has a big hectarage of irrigated ricelands, its own seaport and airport; inhabited by migrants from Luzon and Visayas, indigenous peoples and the Muslim. Siocon is virtual melting pot of the South. It has an annexed campus of Jose Rizal Memorial State University. What it needs, among others, is a strong science high school that affords a wider option for its youths' life - career, based on their aptitudes and inclinations.

In view thereof the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
