EXPLANATORY NOTE

Much has been said about barangay officials being at the frontline of government services. During the series of calamities, both natural and man-made, which recently buffeted the country (Bohol earthquake, Leyte's supertyphoon devastation and the Zamboanga siege), our barangay leaders have been hailed as the "first responders" in the chaotic aftermath when the national government and civic organizations could not seem to get their act together. In the remote communities of our country, the national government is well-nigh invisible and the only acquaintance about governance that our people have is their own village leaders.

And yet, in spite of their services to the general public, it is sad, almost shocking, to learn that our barangay officials are not compulsorily covered by the GSIS law solely because they do not have "fixed monthly compensation." As such, they could not avail of the several important benefits that GSIS members are entitled to.

It is to be noted that the compulsory coverage of our barangay officials under the GSIS is not a mere grant, a bonus, or a free ride to these officials. They will still be required to remit their personal contributions to enjoy the benefits of our government insurance system. However, the counterpart government contributions to finance this initiative may be huge considering the total number of barangay officials nationwide.

The substantial budgetary requirements for their compulsory coverage notwithstanding, it is believed that it is an act of justice to accord equal treatment to our barangay leaders as that we accord to other public servants. They deserve our respect as well as our support inasmuch as the barangay is the basic political unit of government in our country.

In view of all the foregoing considerations, the early approval of this bill is earnestly requested.
