EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to change the name of Luuk District Hospital in the Municipality of Luuk, Province of Sulu.

Allayon S. Arbison was the Chief of the local police forces in the town of Luuk, Sulu, during the mid 1940's until the late 1960's. Before his assignment in the said area, lawlessness and criminality was at its critical level in Mainland Jolo. His strong and absolute determination to bring peace and order and the rule of law in his area of jurisdiction earned for him the respect, admiration and accolades from the populace both from the government and private sectors, because of his excellent achievements in his chosen field of public service. He died in the performance of his sworn duties.

Given the very important role the late Allayon S. Arbison in giving importance to the recognition of peace and order and the rule of law as the main tools in bringing progress and development, it is but fitting to memorialize his name and his noble deeds, particularly in Luuk where he was laid to rest.

The approval of this bill is earnestly sought,
