EXPLANATORY NOTE

National development requires the diligent maintenance of roads and the proper planning of road networks. Roads pave the way for efficient and successful commercial transactions and help in the advancement of economy and the creation of more jobs and sources of livelihood. It is, thus, important that the country's roads be maintained, improved and repaired to ensure their maximum utilization.

Fourth Avenue Street is a two-lane city road located in the second district of Caloocan City, Metro Manila covering a distance of 876 linear meters. Although this road is relatively narrow, it is performing a vital role in the bustling trade of the neighboring Navotas Fish Port and the Manila Pier. It must be noted that a portion of the primary arterial national thoroughfare called C3 Road, spanning from Rizal Avenue Extension to A. Mabini Avenue also in Caloocan City, Metro Manila, is only accessible to west-bound vehicles. This is because the construction of the east-bound portion of C3 road is still unfinished as of this date due to a long-standing dispute that has been pending before the courts for decades. There being a need for a diversion road for east-bound vehicles coming from Rizal Extension Avenue to A. Mabini Avenue, Fourth Avenue street was tapped to serve this purpose.

Considering that Fourth Avenue street serves as an indispensable link to a primary arterial national road, it is only imperative that the maintenance, improvement and repair thereof should be undertaken by the Department of Public Works and Highways which is better equipped, both financially and technically, than the local government of Caloocan. This could only be done, however, if Fourth Avenue Street will be classified as a national road.

In view of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
