Republic of the Philippines
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Batasan Hills, Quezon City

EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

House Bill No. 3300

Introduced by
HON. YEDDA MARIE K. ROMUALDEZ

and

HON. FERDINAND MARTIN G. ROMUALDEZ

EXPLANTORY NOTE

This bill seeks to declare November 8 of every year as a special non-working holiday in the highly urbanized city of Tacloban, the provinces of Leyte, Biliran, Southern Leyte, Northern Samar, (Western) Samar and Eastern Samar and the independent city of Ormoc to commemorate the onslaught of Typhoon Yolanda (international name, Haiyan).

Over the course of less than 24 hours on November 8, 2013, Typhoon Haiyan cut a swath of destruction across the central part of the Philippines, severely affecting parts of Eastern Visayas. The typhoon also precipitated a storm surge in the seas around the coastal towns of Eastern and Western Samar and Leyte, in particular the city of Tacloban that led to grave loss of life and massive damage to property. It is one of the strongest storms ever recorded with wind speeds of more than 300 kph and storm surges over four (4) meters.

The storm surge precipitated by the typhoon in its coastal towns claimed thousands of lives and wrought massive destruction to private and public properties. An estimated 12.2 million people (2.6 million families) were reported to have been affected by the disaster, with more than 90 percent coming from the Visayas region. As of December 12, 2013, there were 5,982 reported fatalities; more than 80 percent were from the three Leyte towns of Tacloban, Palo, and Tanauan. A further 27,022 people were reported injured, with 1,779 persons still missing.

1 A total of 1,192,091 houses are reported damaged, of which 593,785
2 are reported to have incurred more than 50 percent damage, leaving behind
3 tens of thousands of internally displaced individuals. The total damage and 4 loss from typhoon Haiyan has been initially estimated at PHP 571.1 billion
5 (equivalent to USD 12.9 billion). The impact of the strongest typhoon in 6 recorded history was most heavily felt by the economic and social sectors,
7 which together sustained nearly 93 percent of the total damage and loss.

9 The pain caused by Yolanda is somewhat negated by the phenomenal
10 opportunity to be able to build back better, given the overwhelming support
11 that comes our way in many forms – humanitarian aid for immediate disaster
12 relief, funding assistance for rehabilitation and recovery projects, and even
13 technical assistance willing to be shared by experts on understanding better
14 the disaster that hit us and preventing another one from hitting us in the 15 future.

17 For the last three years, through a local executive order, the city of 18 Tacloban and the provinces of Leyte, Biliran, Southern Leyte, and Northern 19 Samar, (Western) Samar and Eastern Samar have been observing an annual 20 commemoration of typhoon Yolanda.

22 This bill is intended to be a fitting tribute to the memory of all who died
23 in the said disaster and to salute the selflessness of all volunteers and 24 organizations who took part and contributed in the recovery and rehabilitation
25 efforts of the communities affected by the typhoon.

26
27 In view of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
