HOUSE BILL NO. _____

Introduced by Rep. Precious Hipolito Castelo

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The advent of the Internet, advanced technology if you may, has changed the way we do things to a degree never before imagined.

But where one gains, another loses.

There are those on the other side of the Great Cultural Divide who cannot exercise the option to go on formal education, either secondary or tertiary level, unless an innovative, alternative, online, and intensive program of study or curriculum could be made available – this time – informally, outside of the box, in another learning environment and in an entirely new, albeit experimental mode of learning.

Few steps may have been taken in this direction with a concept, however incomplete, like the concept of "eSkwela."

In the context of this humble measure, it is envisioned that one can acquire high school education and/or two-year college program of study or course without having to attend hours of actual classroom instruction which could entail various costs let alone sacrifice.

This unmet need is best satisfied with this Alternative-Online Learning System institutionalized, hence this submission. In the end, thousands upon thousands of otherwise out-of-school will get into mainstream- finish secondary education, then pursue college, then find gainful employment and finally break the artificial barrier of poverty.

The swift passage of this bill is most earnestly sought.
