First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL No. 3731

EXPLANATORY NOTE

In a landmark decision of Justice Maria Lourdes Sereno, the Supreme Court found five (5) members of the Aquila Legis Juris Fraternity guilty of reckless imprudence resulting to the death of Leonardo "Lenny" Villa twenty-one years ago during the organization's initiation rites.

In its 68-page decision, the high tribunal recommended that Congress amend the Anti-Hazing Law "to include the fact of intoxication and the presence of non-resident or alumni fraternity members during hazing as aggravating circumstances that would increase the applicable penalties.

This is the answer to the call. This bill seeks to include the said circumstances as aggravating circumstances to consider in the application of penalties of violators of Republic Act 8049, also known as the Anti-Hazing Law.

The State, as a declaration of policy, should condemn all acts of fraternity-related violence, most especially those happening in an academic environment. This includes initiation rites that subject the neophytes to intense physical and psychological torture.

The call for a stricter law penalizing hazing persists to stop the danger it poses to the lives of the youth. A recent example is the death of Guillo Cesar Servando, a student of De La Salle-College of St. Benilde, who died on June 28, 2014 due to hazing initiation.

The bill was filed in the 15th Congress but for lack of time, its progress was halted at the committee level. In light of all these circumstances, the swift passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
