14 (ACC) shall be guided by the following:

15 1. The family being the fundamental group of society and the natural 16 environment for the growth, well-being, and protection of children, efforts should 17 primarily be directed to enable the child to remain in or return to the care of his/her 18 parents, or when appropriate, extended family members;

19 2. The State should ensure that families have access to forms of support in 20 the caregiving role. Every child and young person should live in a supportive, 21 protective, and caring environment that promotes his/her full potential. Children 22 with inadequate or no parental care are at special risk of being denied such a 23 nurturing environment;

24 3. Where the child's own family is unable, even with appropriate support, to 25 provide adequate care for the child, or abandons, or relinquishes the child, the 26 State is responsible for protecting the rights of the child and ensuring appropriate 27 alternative care, with or through competent local authorities and duly authorized 28 civil society organizations;

29 4. It is the role of the State, through its competent authorities, to ensure the 30 supervision of the safety, well-being, and development of any child placed in

1 alternative care and the regular review of the appropriateness of the care
2 arrangement provided;

3 5. All decisions, initiatives and approaches falling within the scope of the 4 present guidelines should be made on a case-by-case basis, with a view, notably, to 5 ensuring the child's safety and security, and must be grounded in the best interests 6 and rights of the child concerned, in conformity with the principle of non-7 discrimination and taking due account of the gender perspective;

8 6. The Principle of Subsidiary requires that all efforts shall be exerted to 9 ensure that local solutions should be first found before a child is placed for inter-10 country adoption;

11 7. Adoptive parents, as well as foster parents, must be protected from 12 attempts to disturb their parental authority and custody over their adopted or 13 fostered child;

14 8. All decisions concerning alternative care should take full account of the 15 desirability of maintaining, as much as possible, closeness to the child's habitual 16 place of residence, in order to facilitate contact and potential reintegration with the 17 family and to minimize disruption of educational, cultural, and social life;

18 9. Decisions regarding children in alternative care, should have due regard 19 for the importance of ensuring children a family-based care, group foster care, and 20 of meeting their basic need for safe and long-term relationship to their caregivers, 21 with permanency generally being a key goal;

22 10. Children must be treated with dignity and respect at all times and must 23 benefit from effective protection from abuse, neglect, and all forms of exploitation, 24 whether on the part of care providers, peers, or third parties, in whatever care 25 setting they may find themselves;

26 11. Siblings, with existing bonds, should in principle not be separated from 27 placements in alternative care unless there is a clear risk of abuse or other 28 justification in the best interest of the child. In any case, every effort should be 29 made to enable siblings to grow together, maintain contact with each other, unless 30 this is against their wishes or interests;

12. All entities and individuals engaged in the provision of alternative child care which received due authorization to do so from competent authority are subject to regular monitoring and review. Authorities should develop appropriate criteria for assessing the professional and ethical fitness of care providers and for their accreditation, monitoring, and supervision;

13. Provisions of alternative childcare should never be undertaken with a prime purpose of furthering the political, religious, or economic goals of the providers; and

14. Such other principles in accordance with the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.
