SEVENTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 3324

Introduced by Honorable Rosenda Ann Ocampo

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The State recognizes the vital role of the youth in nation building and shall promote their physical, moral, spiritual and intellectual well-being.

Dormitories and boarding houses have been providing temporary shelter to millions of students who have to live away from their families to pursue their studies. However, there are reports showing that some dormitories and boarding houses are operating despite failure to comply with health, safety and structural standards.

It has been observed that most of these dormitories and boarding houses, especially those in the University belt area in Manila, are in dilapidated, unsanitary and unsafe conditions. Owners and operators of these dormitories and boarding houses fail to provide their boarders and occupants with basic facilities such as adequate fire protection, lighting and electricity, proper ventilation and spacing and study area.

On May 26, 2013, Manila Bulletin reported that the Cebu City Fire Department started inspecting boarding houses and dormitories to ensure that these properties are in compliance with the Fire Safety Code of the Philippines. The inspection is part of the city's preparation for the opening of classes. Thousands of college students from Visayan and Mindanao provinces are expected to flock to the city to study in universities and colleges here. Boarding houses and dormitories abound in the city but fire officials said a number of these facilities are fire hazards and do not have permits to operate, prompting city agencies to conduct the inspection.

And on June 6, 2013, Sunstar Cebu reported that the region's students population is expected to increase between two and four percent from last year's figures, said Dr. Marcial Degamo, DepEd 7 Quality Assurance and Accountability Division chief.

There is an urgent need to address this concern as millions of students are back in schools. It is therefore imperative that measures be adopted to provide safe, clean and convenient accommodation to our students to promote their educational, social and cultural development.

Hence, approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
