

Republic of the Philippines

EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 1295

Introduced by HONORABLE LUIS RAYMUND F. VILLAFUERTE, JR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The lack of proper birth registration makes our people vulnerable to abuse and exploitation. According to UNICEF, nearly 1.7 million Filipino children do not have birth documents and the country lacks a national child monitoring and reporting system. With that estimated number, there are projected to be around 30,000 – 50,000 children who are displaced each year as a result of armed conflict.

Children in Need of Special Protection (CNSP) is a term used for children born under or placed in difficult and unusual situations, as in those exposed to armed conflict and are at risk or in conflict with the law, among others. These children are normally undocumented due to their unusual setting and due to the neglect and abandonment by their parents — a situation that they were thrust into without choice. The lack of birth registration of the CNSPs isolates them from the current radar of people that the State is supposed to protect.

Our youth become more vulnerable and disadvantaged when coupled with the confusion and discrimination that non-registration brings about to a person. The lack of proper documentation strip the children of their rights and benefits supposedly afforded to them as a citizen had they been properly documented in the first place. It is only right that we take steps to ensure that all Filipinos are properly registered so as to afford each one the protection due to any registered person.

The presence of a proof of birth registration through an improved civil registry ensures protection by the State for those undocumented; it ensures them of safety and dignity that comes with properly being recognized. This not only guarantees the people a sense of safety among everyone else, but this also secures better statistics and a more refined data on birth and civil registry in the country.

As a counterpart bill to Senator Poe's version in the Senate, the bill provides for a process to register those who are unable to. It aims to be proactive and provide for guidelines that address registration problems that normally occur in these cases. This bill also ensures that the CNSPs are given necessary treatment to the nearest medical facility upon referral.

The State, through its leaders and legislators, is mandated to provide for and protect its citizens—from the time they are born until their unavoidable demise. The nation is there to nurture and care for its people, regardless of sex, status, beliefs and any other forms of discrimination. In the same way that a country gains dignity as a nation through its people, a person should also be able to grow up with dignity and safety in the country they consider their home.

In view of the foregoing, the immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
