"AN ACT ESTABLISHING A HEALTH PROMOTION FUND AND HEALTH PROMOTION COMMISSION TO OVERSEE THE IMPLEMENTATION OF HEALTH PROMOTION IN THE PHILIPPINES AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES"

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The 1987 Constitution provides that the State shall protect and promote the right to health of the people and instill health consciousness among them (Article II, Section 15).

Subsequently, through Executive Order No. 292 entitled "The Administrative Code of the Philippines", the Department of Health (DOH) is mandated as the agency primarily responsible for the promotion, protection, preservation or restoration of the health of the people through the provision and delivery of health services and through the regulation and encouragement of providers of health goods and services (Book IV, Title IX, Chapter I).

With the enactment of Republic Act 7160, entitled "The Local Government Code of 1991", the provision of health services was devolved to local government units. This includes the implementation of programs and projects on primary health care, maternal and child care, and communicable and non-communicable disease control services; access to secondary and tertiary health services; and purchase of medicines, medical supplies, and equipment (Section 17). Furthermore, the Local Government Code mandates the Health Officer to "formulate and implement policies, plans, programs and projects to promote the health of the people in the local government unit concerned" (Section 478).

Despite these provisions that give attention to the promotion and protection of health of the people, funds for health care have traditionally been spent more on treating the sick than in keeping the population healthy. The DOH's curative approach is typically justified due to the fact that the Philippines continues to be plagued by a high prevalence of infectious diseases which call for immediate action. This has, however, become a severe shortcoming in light of the alarming increase in the incidence of degenerative and lifestyle diseases like hypertension, cancer, accidents, and diabetes, which require long term investments to prevent.

Deaths from communicable diseases have exceeded deaths from non-communicable diseases but these are equally important. However, the need to address short term immediate health concerns, due to its nature, will always take priority over the prevention of prospective chronic diseases. In this context, the government resources to prevent lifestyle diseases will invariably be sacrificed to address urgent health concerns. In the long run, as the Philippines succeeds in providing universal coverage in health care, the government will have to bear the costs of treating the chronic diseases mentioned.

Furthermore, dealing with the prevention of lifestyle diseases require a "health promotion" approach or one that empowers people to take action to improve their health in order to reduce vulnerability and risks to ill health and disability throughout the life cycle, especially among the poor and marginalized groups. The international public health consensus is that the health promotion approach would involve not only building a healthy public policy, developing of personal skills, and reorienting health services, it would also require the creation of supportive environments and strengthening of community actions, which in turn is greatly dependent on the involvement of non-health sectors or the adoption of a "whole of government" approach.

As a signatory of the Alma-Ata Declaration, the Philippines strongly reaffirms that health, which is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being, and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity, is a fundamental human right and that the attainment of the highest possible level of health is a most important world-wide social goal. To ensure this, the Declaration decrees that all governments should formulate national policies, strategies and plans of action to launch and sustain primary health care as part of a comprehensive national health system and in coordination with other sectors.

In many countries, a charge, in various forms, on tobacco products is utilized as a sustainable funding source for a variety of public needs, mostly involving health promotion activities. Guiding Principles and Recommendations for the implementation of Article 6 of the FCTC recommend using revenues from tobacco to dedicate revenue to tobacco-control programmes, such as those covering awareness raising, health promotion and disease prevention, and the like.

Towards this end, there is a need to mainstream health in all aspects of economic development and create an multisectoral body that would promote innovative approaches and ensure the efficient implementation of health promotion strategies. There is also an opportunity to tap funds sourced from tobacco products in order to create a fund that will promote investments in previously underfunded health promotion strategies required to address longer term health concerns including social mobilization to promote healthy behaviors.

This bill, therefore, proposes the creation of a Health Promotion Commission to be funded from 20% of the remaining incremental revenues allocated for health pursuant to Republic Act No. 10351 shall be earmarked for this fund. Through the Health Promotion Commission, our goal of making Filipinos manage their own health will become a reality.

Thus, the immediate enactment of this measure is respectfully urged.

REP. H. HARRY L. ROQUE, JR.

SIXTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 918

Introduced by Representative H. Harry L. Roque, Jr.

"AN ACT ESTABLISHING A HEALTH PROMOTION FUND AND HEALTH PROMOTION COMMISSION TO OVERSEE THE IMPLEMENTATION OF HEALTH PROMOTION IN THE PHILIPPINES AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES"

Be it enacted by the Senate and the House of Representative of the Republic of the Philippines
in Congress assembled:

PART I

Sec. 1. Title. – This Act shall be known as the “Health Promotion Act of 2016”.

Sec. 2. Declaration of Policy. – It is the policy of the State to protect and promote the right to health of the people and instill health consciousness among them.

9 It shall also be declared the policy of the State to ensure that people are empowered to 10 increase control over their health and its determinants for purposes of improving
11 their health.

Toward this end, the State will provide a comprehensive and coordinated approach for health promotion specifically by building healthy public policies, creating supporting environments, strengthening community actions; developing personal skills; and reorienting health services.

17
18 Recognizing the health inequities that exist, it shall be the policy of the State to be 19 sensitive to the needs of the youth, women, poor, elderly, disabled, and the 20 marginalized sectors. In view thereof, the State shall ensure coherence and

1 coordination among government agencies in the development and implementation of
2 health promotion policies, plans, and programs.

4 Recognizing the need to ensure that government policies, plans, programs, and
5 projects take health impact into account, it is hereby declared the policy of the State to 6 systematically integrate the concept of health promotion in various phases of policy
7 formulation, development plans, poverty reduction strategies, and other 8 development tools and techniques by all agencies and instrumentalities of the 9 government.

11 It shall be the policy of the State to enjoin the participation of national and local 12 governments, civil society organization, academe, local communities, and the private 13 sector, to achieve health promotion goals.

14
15 Sec. 3. Purpose. – This act aims to:

- 16
17 a) Mainstream health in public policy, plans, and programs of various sectors
18 and government agencies
19 b) Establish a Health Promotion Commission to develop a national framework
20 for health promotion and monitor results
21 c) Establish a Health Promotion Fund to be sourced from 20% of the remaining
22 incremental revenues allocated for health pursuant to Republic Act 10351

23
24 Sec. 4. Definition of Terms. –

25 For purposes of this act, health promotion means any action or policy that is aimed at 26 mainstreaming health in all aspects of economic development, creating a supportive
27 environment for healthy behavior, and promoting social mobilization for health.

28 Required investments in health promotion refer to investments in strategies and activities
29 that focus on traditionally underfunded areas of health such as, but not limited to,
30 encouraging community action to promote healthy behaviors, introducing structural 31 and regulatory approaches, exploring low cost but high impact health innovations to 32 promote wellness, and conducting research and development towards drivers of 33 health such as nutrition and behavior.

34 Supplemental investments in health promotion include investment in strategies to create
35 participatory mechanisms to monitor, evaluate, and supplement current initiatives
36 and existing health investments.

37 Mainstreaming refers to the integration of policies and measures that address health
38 into development planning and sectoral decision-making. It is a strategy for making
39 health and wellness an integral dimension of the design, implementation, 40 monitoring, and evaluation of policies and programs in all political, economic,
41 environmental and societal spheres so that the right to health is protected. It is the process of assessing the implications for health of any planned action, including legislation, policies, or programs in all areas and at all levels.

3 Conflict of interest shall mean any circumstance under which a person by virtue of 4 financial or other personal interest, past, present or potential, directly or indirectly,
5 may be influenced or appear to be influenced by any motive or desire for personal
6 advantage other than the interests of public health.

PART II

Creation of the National Health Promotion Commission of the Philippines

12 Sec. 5. Establishment. - There is hereby established a Health Promotion Commission, 13 hereinafter referred to as the Commission.

15 The Commission shall be an independent and autonomous body and shall have the 16 same status as that of a national government agency. It shall have its principal place
17 of business in Metro Manila. It shall be organized within two (2) months from the 18 effectivity of this Act.

19
20 The Commission shall oversee an integrated and comprehensive approach to health
21 promotion in the Philippines. It shall be the lead policy-making body of the 22 government, which shall be tasked to coordinate, monitor, and evaluate the 23 programs and action plans of the government in order to ensure the mainstreaming

4 government agencies may mainstream health promotion in the context of the 5 national strategic framework.

6 Sec. 17. Role of LGUs. -

8 The local government units shall be responsible for the formulation, implementation, 9 monitoring, and evaluation of the local health promotion plan in their respective 10 jurisdiction, consistent with the national strategic framework.

11 Barangays shall be directly involved with municipal and city governments in 12 prioritizing health promotion issues and in identifying and implementing best
13 practices and other solutions. Provincial governments shall provide technical 14 assistance, in support of municipal and city health promotion plans.

15 Inter-local government unit collaboration shall be maximized in the conduct of health
16 promotion activities.

17 LGUs shall regularly update their respective action plans to reflect changing social,
18 economic, and health conditions and emerging issues. The LGUs shall furnish the 19 Commission with copies of their action plans and all subsequent amendments, 20 modifications and revisions thereof, within one (1) month from their adoption. The 21 LGUs shall mobilize and allocate necessary personnel, resources, and logistics to 22 effectively implement their respective plans.

23 The local chief executive shall appoint the person responsible for the formulation and 24 implementation of the local health promotion plan. It shall be the responsibility of the 25 national government to extend technical and financial assistance to LGUs for the 26 accomplishment of their health promotion plans.

27 The LGU is hereby expressly authorized to appropriate and use the amount from its 28 Internal Revenue Allotment necessary to implement the said local plan effectively,
29 any provision in the Local Government Code to the contrary notwithstanding.

30 Sec. 18. Role of the Civil Society Organizations and the Private Sector. -

31 The civil society organizations (CSOs) as well as community based organizations
32 (CBOs) play a key role in social mobilization for health promotion which is a strategic 33 approach to changing health behavior. CSOs and CBOs shall be encouraged to 34 undertake health promotion programs within the national framework and plan.

35 The private sector is encouraged to support health promotion activities of CSOs and 36 CBOs and to contribute to promoting and implementing the national strategy
37 framework and plan.

1 Sec. 19. Coordination with Various Sectors. - In the development and 2 implementation of the national framework and plan, and the local action plans, the
3 Commission shall consult and coordinate with the non-government organizations
4 (NGOs), civic organizations, academe, people's organizations, the private and 5 corporate sectors, and other concerned stakeholder groups.

6 Sec. 20. Health Promotion in all Government Entities - All government entities
7 shall:

- 8 a. Designate focal persons to catalyze and accelerate health promotion within 9 their offices;
- 10 b. Monitor health status of all personnel within their respective agencies;
- 11 c. Submit an annual report to the Civil Service Commission on the 12 implementation of health promotion programs and activities in accordance 13 with guidelines to be issued;
- 14 d. Utilize budget appropriation as primary or counterpart funding to implement 15 health promotion plans.

16 The CSC shall assist in monitoring the implementation of this provision

17
18 Sec 21. Public Information. -
